AVALON ARCHITECTURAL

Southern California architectural firm Avalon Architectural has built its esteemed reputation on designing truly customized homes that celebrate each one of their its unique way of life. The firm's individualized approach to design extends into every facet of the design process, ensuring truly one-of-a-kind, tailor-made homes. "We are known for our diversity of architectural styles. As a truly client-focused architecture firm, we not only bring our own sensibility to design, we help the client discover theirs," architect Tom Stewart says. "A successful project is defined by the satisfaction of the client. Our clients are diverse and energized by their life's pursuits, bringing us lots of fun challenges. A custom home that is helping our clients live well is a success." Accounting for every detail of a client's life is essential. "We create impeccable design for the way our clients really live day to day. So, in initial meetings with clients, we ask them to tell us about their daily lives, hour by hour if possible," explains architect Jeff Anderson. "Designing a home is about creating a lifestyle, and ideally, it should be an enjoyable process of self discovery. We are good listeners. Our homes enhance the client's quality of everyday life through meticulous attention to detail, timeless aesthetics, and correct and efficient use of space."

Ask the Expert

Tips for clients to make the design experience more rewarding?

Think about how you live day to day. What is and isn't working in your current home? We want to design a home that helps you live well. And then, dream big. Our goal is to make your dream scenario a reality.

What elements characterize your work?

Excellent flow and a livable floor plan, coupled with beautiful details that elevate daily life. When you first enter each of our homes, you experience that "wow" moment: the sense of luxury, open space, perfect lighting and a spectacular view.

What's next for the firm?

Though waterfront homes will always be a mainstay of our business, we've been expanding in the La Quinta and Palm Springs areas in California and the greater Las Vegas area. Large lot sizes, natural beauty and diversity of architectural styles make for an exciting place to practice architecture.

1. This waterfront home on Newport Beach's Linda Isle epitomizes elegant, relaxed waterfront living. 2. Working within aesthetic guidelines of the custom home enclave, Shady Canyon in Irvine, Avalon Architectural created this historically accurate "modern Provence farmhouse." 3. Located in Henderson, Nevada's exclusive MacDonald Highlands custom residential enclave, this home was designed as a clean, striking backdrop to host large numbers of people for charity events, while preserving privacy in the client's personal spaces. 4. This open-plan home in Corona del Mar was designed for versatility: to facilitate intimate family gatherings and large-scale entertaining. 5. On the cliffs overlooking Corona del Mar's white beaches, this four-story terraced home includes an infinity-edge swimming pool and a custom kosher kitchen.

"Our goal is to create impeccable design for the way our clients really live."
